

Jeffrey Wood, Ph.D. is an Assistant Professor of Psychological Studies in Education at UCLA. He is also a licensed clinical psychologist with expertise in diagnosis and treatment of autism spectrum disorders. He has received multiple grants from the National Institute of Health and the Cure Autism Now Foundation to develop and test a cognitive behavioral therapy (CBT) intervention for children with high-functioning autism, Asperger's Disorder, and PDD-NOS. His current clinical trial focuses on adapting CBT to address emotional and social difficulties among elementary school-aged children with autism spectrum disorders. He has recently published a treatment study of CBT in the Journal of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry.
